

Concept Review

(Land Use Application also required)

Concept Review is an optional process and designed to address the appropriateness of a development proposal from the perspective of general land use compatibility without incurring substantial cost. This process provides a forum in which more specific development issues and potential concerns can be identified and may require further information and additional analysis at the Development Stage.

There are two general types of concept review: Policy and Land Use. Policy concept review allows the Council to provide informal comments related to land use policy: i.e. would the Council be willing to consider a rezoning or land use amendment. A Land Use concept review process provides the applicant with an opportunity to submit a plan showing the basic intent and the general nature of the entire development.

Neither the City Council nor the Planning Commission will take any formal action to approve or deny the application. No comments, remarks, or observations made by the City Council, Planning Commission, or City Staff on the Concept Plan are binding on the City for subsequent stages.
